FOREWORD

E OFFER for your approval the fifth issue of the annual S-I-S Boom. Thru the co-operation of various departments and organizations we have made it as nearly representative of the school as possible. Therefore, we wish to extend thanks: to The English department, for editing and proof reading. The Printing Department for their untiring effort to make the book beautiful. The Art Department, for the artistic contributions, and The Students and Teachers, for their hearty subscription and support.

Our task has been to collect the news in and about the school, the students, and teachers, and to write it up in such form that you will like to read it.

The mechanical staff, pictured above, deserves much credit for its cooperation in the composing, printing, and binding of this annual, as well as the bi-monthly issues of the S-I-S Boom during the second semester. This staff is made up entirely of boys who are taking printing a third or fourth semester.

As a matter of enlightenment to the students concerning the work of these boys: They take the manuscript copy furnished by the editorial staff and set it up in type by picking up single type characters (letters) and placing

9A GIRLS AND 9A BOYS

YOU CAN SING THIS ONE

By Eleanor Taylor

When I was a blosson in old South
School's lanes
And you were my algebra book,
We roamed in the halls and sat in the rain,
And I had a nightmare with you.
Remember that first little lesson was "E," I cried—so heartbroken—all over my knees.
When I was a blossom of old South
School's lanes,
And you were my algebra book.

In the regular issues of the S-I-S Boom we have tried to feature various deparments. Among them were the art, dramatic, music, and physical education departments.

We wish to thank the student body for their helpful interest. It brightens the day to hear "When will the paper be out?" or "Want an article for the S-I-S Boom?" With their coopertion, we look for constant improvement in our little newspaper.

As for the staff, they have worked hard and well, and one quality they all have annexed is "a nose for news."

A Sad Tale

A horrible blood-curdling scream followed by violent kicks and unutterable ejaculations of distress and ill humored disdain poured forth from the closeted room. In front of a huge mirror a young man grappled with it, IT, the cause of the chaos and confusion.

"I've got you now," he choked out as he got a better grip on it. But it still eluded his trying grasp and stoutly refused submission to his will. Finally, as if exhausted, he sank slowly into a chair nearby and observed the object of his derision, with a well-deserved sneer.

A new gush of ambition prompted him to try again and he grabbed a bottle which contained a nice smelling lotion. He administered it vigorously. All of a sudden, a shrill whistle of glee and delight escaped him and he danced around the room.

The unruly hairs on the back of Johnny Jones' head had been subdued.

9A CLASS CALENDAR

JANUARY

Guess what! We're 9A's, full fledged and distinguished. Already we can feel the weight of our 9A caps—which we don't get until June and provided we don't flunk.

FEBRUARY

We did succeed in wading through "Ivanhoe," but we are a trifle disgusted with all the home work. However—

MARCH

Ought to have a few bright spots, but the familiar words, "March winds" seem to have taken effect. Blowsy complexions and an occasional freckle give evidence. Just the same, the cast for the 9A play, "The Automatic Butler," has been chosen. Oh, those lucky few!

APRIL

As a little kindergarten boy expressed it, we've just "taken our pictures tooken." Believe it or not, but those same pictures are good.

MAY

Is here, but where are the flowers? The girls' baseball team opened the season with a smashing victory over North School, even though they lost their captain, Lydia Jekel. Lillian Collier was elected in her place and is carrying on the job in fine style.

Besides all the excitement of the 9A play, the subscription campaign of the S-I-S Boom went over "big."

JUNE

Heigh ho—we've had our banquet, and our assembly, and our play. Nothing's left but the memories of a pleasant and a busy year.

Goodbye, Everybody!

9B CLASS

THE 9A CLASS WILL

We, the 9A class of the South Intermediate School, city of Saginaw, state of Michigan, do hereby make, publish and declare this to be our last will and testament. We hereby do bequeath these the following:

Dwight Maddox leaves his place of second baseman to Carol Golden.

I, Madolyn Sensabaugh, will my opportunities for motorcycle rides to Viola Boissoneault.

A catcher's mask is left to Gotfred Balzer by Russel Sursaw hoping he will make good use of it.

All the excused absence slips that Fred Murray possesses he bequeaths to Stacy Hart.

Emma Jackman leaves her ability to wave her hair naturally to Evelyn Kirstowsky and hopes that Evelyn will not break the mirror in rage at her reflection.

Margaret Wiltse leaves Harold Martin in the care of Edna Liebrecht for one year.

I, Ellafern Hoffman, leave my locker full of notes from Edward Schnarr to Grace Greenwood.

Molly Marr and Nancy MacArthur bequeath their closely bound friendship to Christina Gardner and Elizabeth Schadt, hoping they won't have so many breakups.

William Le Roux leaves South and also his captain's badge to George Cay.

I, Aleene MacQuarrie, will and bequeath unto Jean Curran my ability for writing notes in hopes that the teachers don't get many.

Frances Turbin bequeaths her library knowledge to the one who takes her place.

The present 9A girls' food class bequeath their ability for making cookies to the next class, hoping that they are requested to make cookies for Mrs. Davis.

Virginia Gotts imagines that someday she will be a music teacher so to help her along Elizabeth Lamb bequeaths her talent.

Chloris Smith leaves her gym trunks to Doris Toney with assurance they wont split.

Junior Gotts leaves his knowledge of aristocratic "Pig Latin" to Floyd

Smith hoping it serves its advantage in his forthcoming class.

I, Eleanor Taylor leave my ability to become an actress "supplied with" a compact belonging to Patsy Lord, to Irene Lawrence.

From the 9A's to the 9B's we will our algebra books equipped with information on thought problems.

Dorothy Wager bequeaths her ability to attract the boys to Vera Gene Shellington.

Eleanor Steilow bequeaths to Dorothy Maul her curling irons, provided they are not all worn out after the 9A banquet.

Elizabeth Slocum wills her natural face color to Inez Farrell.

The name of "Honorable" owned by Irene Francis is bequeathed to Catherine Morgan.

Mae Blake and Emma Caldwell leave their craze for writing notes to Dorothy Waters and Jean Hegler.

Carolyn Hayner is leaving her perfectly good fiddle to Olga Witbrodt.

The 9A class leaves Mr. Vanderveer an artist, Dorothy Aurenz, so he won't strain his efforts trying to draw.

A bequest from Betty Ann Williams to Marjory Moiles: I leave Jack in your care for two semesters providing that he isn't overworked.

A hot temper belonging to Tom Byron is willingly bequeathed to Harold Pohlman.

We therefore hereby appoint as our sole administrator, Mr. Richards.

Signed and sealed the 11th day of June in the year of our Lord, 1931.

BOOSTER CLUB AND SAFETY PATROL

S. I. S. SAFETY PATROL

The Safety Patrol had another good year. The boys and girls of South have been excellent in their cooperation with the boys, and very few violations were reported, considering the number of students.

Of course we will always find some, we are sorry to say, who deliberately break the rules and disobey the boys on duty, but they soon learn the value of cooperation.

Our patrol has won the banner four times this year for excellence in drill and first aid knowledge, and the other times they have been second, putting them on a par with any patrol in this district.

Marking time has made vacancies to be filled by new members, as no one with an "E" can be a member of the Safety Patrol. Sometimes we lose very good patrolmen, but we feel that a standard must be kept up.

You cannot help but notice the boys around school as they perform various tasks, such as door-tending for the different attractions which are put on during the year, keeping crowds back at the games, and looking after the safety of our boys and girls.

They put on a safety play for the Parent Teachers' Association, and also gave it again in assembly, which, altho short, gave the students an idea of the real spirit of cooperation.

BOOSTER CLUB

The Booster Club is so well known and so well established at South that it needs no explanation beyond the fact that its aim is to "boost" the school and its work is to care for hall traffic.

At the beginning of each semester, long term members are elected by popular vote, and of course we all wait anxiously for the result.

The 9A class was well represented on the "Board of Directors" this year by Edwina Wright, Edwin Boissonneault, Fred Murray, and Molly Marr. New candidates to fill their places will have to show exceptional executive ability.

The 9B class had three members on the board—Evelyn Kirstowsky, Carol Golden, and Dorothy Aurenz.

The 8th grade was represented by Harry Denyes and G. Boissonneault.

Mrs. Davis was the adviser of the Booster Club. Harry Denyes was president the first semester and Carol Golden the second.

Once upon a time—

Evelyn Kirstowsky didn't like gym.

Robert Roeker talked little and worked hard.

Dwight Beckmann was Miss Turner's star pupil.

Evelyn LaFleur didn't have any boy friends.

Evan Thomas had blonde curls.

Mike Misekow was as short as Edwina Wright.

Bill Lemmer didn't like ice cream.

Philip Schadt weighed 180 lbs.

A school asked the question, "How do you feel?" The answers were:

"Corking," said the bottle.
"Rotten," said the apple.
"Punk," said the firecracker.
"Fine," said the judge.
"Great," said the fireplace.
"Grand," said the piano.
"Ripping," said the trousers.
"First rate," said the postmaster.
"Bum," said the hobo.

them into a tool known as a composing stick to form the words in the lines as they are printed. After the type is set, it is made up into pages, locked up, and put on the press. The boys feed the sheets into the press, which prints two pages at a time, and after the entire book is printed, each sheet is folded. Then the books are made up and stapled together by the boys.

After all this work is completed, the type used is distributed back into the type cases in the proper boxes.

The pictures in the book are printed from plates called half-tones. These are made from photographs, by a special process, by the Central Engraving Co. of Grand Rapids.

ART NOVELTY CLUB

We members of South School are very proud of our "Art Novelty Club," formerly known as the "Uke Club." Its members, averaging seventy, include one yodeler, twenty-three dancers, two readers, two pianists, twelve harmonica boys, and thirty "uke" girls.

The club began its activities last November, appearing fourteen times throughout the year, their greatest hit being the "Toy Maker's Dream." They also appeard in a vaudeville act with the P. T. A. entertainment in March.

The club is now looking for a cartoonist and whistler for next year. Each group will have a limited number of members, so be sure to hand your name in early next September if you expect to join.

"Mother objects to you, Larry, because you have to work for a living."

"It's all right now, dear, I've lost my job."

ART DEPARTMENT

Pupils of the art department have made great progress in the past year. You may have proof of this by paying a visit to Miss Zubler's room to see what has been accomplished.

The students have worked on lettering, designing, coloring, and perspective work which they have applied in various ways to different crafts—relief work, glorified glass, puppets, newspaper bowls and masks, treasure chests, leather, silver, batik, applique, basketry, ivory carvings, and brush work.

Several of the students have started scrap books which will be of great use later on.

The ninth grade batiks this year are adding a great deal of beauty to the school. Last semester's batik, "The Crooked House," was painted by Louise Leipold and Genevieve Hicks. This semester's is being painted by Patricia Lord and Violet Thom.

ART NOVELTY CLUB

CHORUS PROGRAMS 1930-31

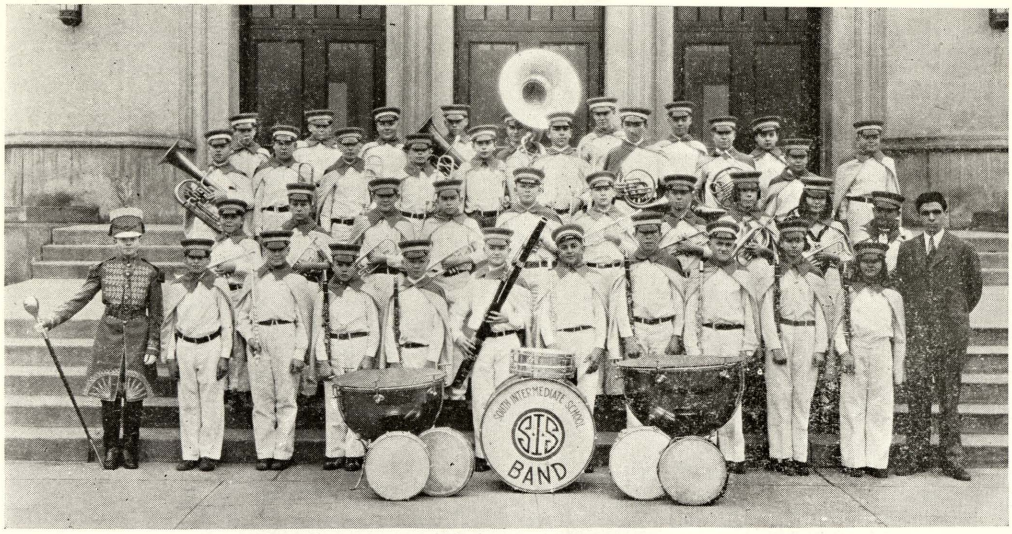
During the past year the vocal departments of the school have provided various entertainment for the pleasure of others. There are three choruses and a quartet.

This quartet, consisting of Frances Remainder, Alberta Hall, Marjory Schultz, and Ellen McDonald, have entertained Tanner's Store Club, and they were also on the programs for the 9A banquet and 9A assembly in January.

Three operettas have been given during the year by the vocal department: "Miser's Dream" by the Sixth Grade Chorus, "Boy Bandits" by the Boys' Chorus, and "Fans and Lanterns" by the Junior High Chorus.

Assembly programs, exchange programs, and music week programs have completed their work.

GIRLS' CHORUS



SOUTH SCHOOL BAND

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

The instrumental music department is now three years old. The band and orchestra have grown from four each to fifty-four and fourty-five respectively. Mr. Johnson has directed both band and orchestra until the present semester. The organization grew so large that it was necessary to have more help. Mr. Flueckiger, Director of Music in the Saginaw schools, offered his assistance and assumed direction of the orchestra. That leaves Mr. Johnson in charge of the South School band and the Arthur Hill high band and orchestra.

Both organizations are fairly well equipped with iustruments. The school owns most of the larger ones. We still need more basses and large string instruments. We have sixteen clarinets now, and Mr. Johnson says, "We must have at least thirty before we can expect to have a first class band."

GIRLS' GYM ACTIVITIES

BASEBALL

Our school team of the spring baseball season, under the captaincy of Lillian Collier with the cooperation of the following girls: Beatrice Ribble, Carol Golden, Madolyn Sensabaugh, Lillian Collier, Capt., Virginia Gotts, Fay Wallace, Eveyln Kirstowsky, Edwina Wright, Anna Sebele, Dorothy Hill, Margaret Yokat, Christina Gardner, decided that a whole championship was better than a tied one, and it was toward this end that they directed their efforts and won.

GIRLS' PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Every girl who takes "gym" is a member of the Physical Education Department, and during the year, she is on at least one team in one or more sports. What sport it is depends upon the season, and what team it is depends upon the girl.

HOME ROOM TOURNAMENTS

Of equal importance are our home room tournaments, which take place at noon. This gives an opportunity for several hundred girls to participate in and to better themselves in all three of our major sports.

It is better to remain silent and be thought a fool, than to speak and remove all doubt.

VOLLEY BALL

Last fall, nineteen girls represented South in the city volleyball tournament. They gained their position on the school team through outstanding ability and good sportsmanship, and because of that, they are to be congratulated. These girls met with one defeat, but they managed to recover in time to tie for the championship.

Evelyn Kirstowsky was captain. The other members of the team were: Daisy Armstrong, Gladys Bellville, Ann Eastwell, Rosella Helwer, Verna Sanford, Evelyn Kirstowsky, Dorothy Mowry, Dora May, Marie Neuwirth, Beatrice Ribble, Madolyn Sensabaugh, Isabelle Stadnikia, Bertha Stier, Fay Wallace, Margaret Yokat, Lydia Jekel, Edwina Wright, Margaret Wiltse, Lillian Collier.

GUESS WHO?

1. An up-and-coming sixth grader—the fourth in the family to attend South, but the only one particularly interested in the girls' gym.

2. A tiny ball player with a winning smile and a technique all her own for catching flies.

3. A Jack-of-all-sports, including league ball (even if she did have to hand in her suit).

4. One of our largest graduates who frequently tumbles without falling but sometimes falls without tumbling.

LIGHTWEIGHT BASKETBALL

South tied both North and Central for the Valley Lightweight Championship this year. Out of ten games, our boys won seven and lost three. North defeated them once and Central twice.

Our team was greatly handicapped by the graduation in February of Edward Krause, Harley Collier, Casper Eckhardt, and Herman Wagner, all four of whom were regulars. Besides the boys mentioned, the lightweight squad was made up of Philip Schadt, Joe Miller, Harold Huebner, Walter Spindler, Howard Simon, Harry Denyes, Jack Houlihan, Tom Byron.

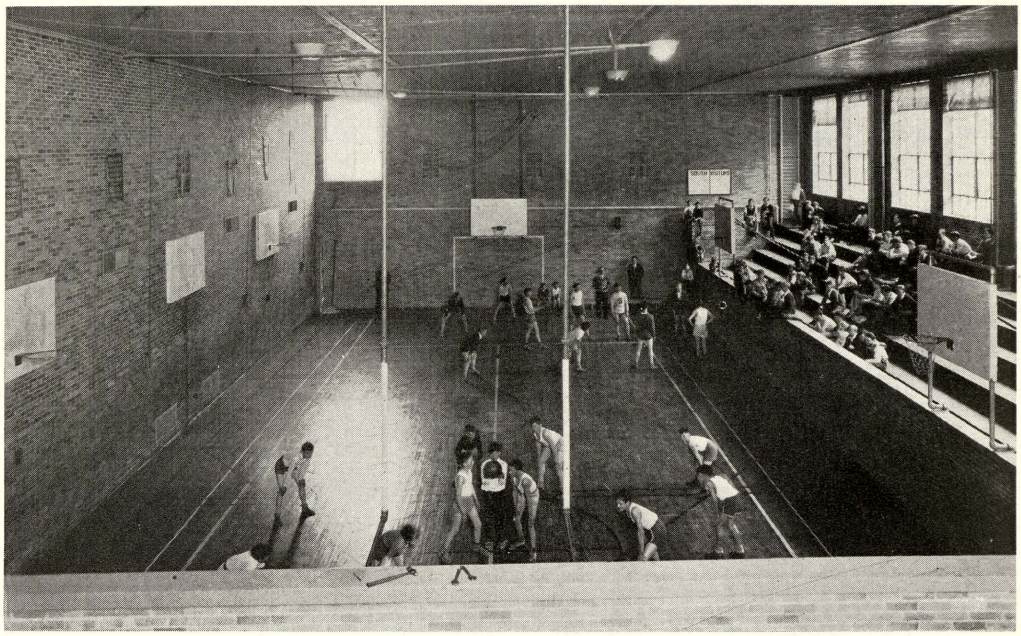
Coach— A.A. Pieritz

Captain— Philip Schadt, Mascot— Julius Spindler

HEAVY WEIGHT BASKET BALL

The South heavy weight basket ball team failed to function the early part of the season. After several shifts in the line-up, a combination of boys composed of Fred Smith, (Captain), Otto Ruppel, Gotfred Balzer, Russell Whalen, and Archie Fobear romped over Webber School with a victory of 19—15, thereby aiding Central Junior High School to win the valley title.

Prospects for next year are bright with Otto Ruppel, Harold Pohlman, and Harold Huebner back, and a host of boys that will graduate from the noon hour intermural group.



A SCENE IN THE BOYS' GYM

THE VALUE OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION

By VIRGIL NOBLE, Instructor

All normal human beings play. Armed with bats and balls or racquets, boys pass hours in friendly struggle. Men compete at golf, and no matter how exhausted, they are always eager to resume the contest. The same amount of time spent at a desk would require much less energy, but it would leave the individual tense and tired.

We define play as the thing we do for fun and relaxation; we define work as the effort we have to put forth. Thomas Edison spends more hours at a bench than the average mechanic, and yet he can never be called a drudge. Why? Because he has discovered the secret of merging work with play, thereby robbing work of its strain. A growing appreciation of the educational value of this simple principle has led our schools to place a special emphasis on supervised play.

It is natural and instinctive to play. Boys have an excess of vitality which must go somewhere. They climb and run and throw for the pure joy of doing so, and develop strength and speed and physical tone thereby.

Play may be directed toward the formation of good and useful habits. Unfortunately that sort never results when boys are left to themselves. Every group has its leader, but that leader is quite apt to be the community bully who quite effectively crushes the spirit of the weaker children, altho he does not leave them quite out of the scheme of things. Does it not seem wiser to place such control under the direction of an experienced leader, if the playground under his guidance, may be made to yield habits of self-control, cooperation, courage to admit and bear defeat, courtesy, and a sense of fair play?

The accomplishments of this department of our educational system is still too new to be accurately measured, but a mass of statistics is not necessary to show that men and boys are finding wholesome ways of spending their leisure time. Surely our severest critics cannot fail to give due credit to the schools for having undertaken the constructive work of providing favorable environment for play and the vitalizing influence of trained leadership.

A Page of Verse

By ALICE ANN LORD 7A

The Lion and the Lamb

A blustery wind with dark, cloud covered skies,
The rain beating down on the earth;
Thru the elm tree's bare branches
come great, gusty sighs
As the wind laughs his threatening mirth.
This is March.
Backward, March!

A soft gentle breeze, blue skies up above,
The sun sends his beaming rays
O'er the elm tree; a robin sings praise and his love
For the Spring, glad that the cold is no more.
This is March.
Forward, March!

The Grand-father's Clock

When first I was a youngster, (a hundred years ago)
I watched old-fashioned gaieties which modern folks scarce know.
Ah, then the prim old ladies would, with tea-cup placed on lap
Chat neighborly with others wearing lacy mitts and cap.
In those days I was counted as a splended, stately clock,
But now I'm just a useless thing— an ornament—
Tick! Tock!

For in this jazzy, whirlwind stage, I hear by radio
The hours chimed when mine were heard these hundred years or so.
Instead of stately tea-cup chats, we now have "dates" and "shows,"
And modern girls stay out 'till three to dance with modern beaus;
But even tho the times have changed and youth is rather wild,
My thoughts are of the years gone by— when first I was a child.

It's My Opinion--

Some folks think Thanksgivin's
A preachin' day, but Heck!
These old time ways of gratefulness
Gimme a pain in the neck!

I'd rather have a drumstick,
A wishbone or a wing,
Than have to sit in church all day,
An' kneel' an' pray, an' sing.

Now don't think I'm complainin'.
I'm really kind'a glad,
Cause even though I don't like church,
The turkey isn't bad.

"Don't Be Like That"

A russet leaf was drifting
Down from the maple tree,
And through the branches sifting
Alighted close to me.

A gust of wind then spied it
And hurried it away.
Some folks are like the maple leaf,
They drift and dream all day.

SEPTEMBER

And the fruit get ripe,
And the corn turn brown,

FLOWERS

Which flower do you like the best?
The pansy with the purple crest,
Or fragrant rose, so sweet and bright,
Four o'clocks that wake at night;
Sweet peas, pink, poppies gay,
Tulips bright that bloom in May;
There's not just one I like the best,
I like each one above the rest.

A Vegetarian's Proposal

I feel so melon cauli, dear,
Since you have been away.
The thyme has seemed so very long,
I pine for you each day,
No sugar beets your sweetness,
Don't turnip your nose at me,
But take this eighteen carrot ring,
And lettuce married be.

Hard Boiled

"That's the guy I'm laying for," said the hen, as the farmer passed the barnyard.

* * *

Little boy (who has been going to the movies too frequently): "Ma, if you don't give me a dime, my love will turn into a fierce hate."

My Dear Miss Mix:

I am very much in love with a young man two years my senior. We are engaged to be married, and I don't know what to do. You see, I have a set of false teeth and don't know whether to tell my sweetheart about it now, thereby risking my engagement, or tell him after we're married—at which time maybe his love for me will grow cold. I'm afraid of losing him.

WORRIED

My Dear Worried:

Marry the man and keep your mouth shut.

Lizzie: "Do you keep all of your love letters?"

Vera: "Sure thing! Some day I expect them to keep me."

Two budding boxers entered the ring on the big night at their club.

"I feel sorry for you, old chap," said one to the other. "You see, I was born with the gloves on."

"That's quite all right," replied the opponent. "You'll soon die the same way."

"Is your father a big man?" the teacher asked of little five-year-old Ted. After a moment's thought he replied: "Well, he's just twice as big as I am because one pair of his pants will make two for me."
